Wayward Children - Who's Responsible?

Saturday, April 11 2009, the Straits Times carried an article "Wayward son, sorry father". The author quoted a Japanese proverb: "The parents' dishonour is their child and the child's dishonour is their parents'." Driven by tradition and the action of "guilt ... | more

What Every Christian Needs To Know (2): Christ Alone

The first thing a Christian needs to know is "Scripture alone". The second thing a Christian needs to know is "Christ alone". The Reformed faith uses the Latin words Solus Christus to express this vital teaching. Christ alone accomplished our salvation. Christ ... | more

Balance Is The Key Of Life (Part 4)

Now, what will happen to you as a believer if you're fed with a constant diet of such unbalanced doctrine? You will erroneously believe that... - you have no need to confess your sins; - the 10 Commandments cause you to lose your freedom in Christ; - ... | more

Lose That You May Find (Part 4)

10. The river of God's grace So how might we better understand, encounter, and identity God's grace? I have already alluded to a number of helpful models, analogies and metaphors. What I now mention, in seeking to bring this discussion to a closure, will only ... | more

Understanding the Homosexual Agenda

According to a news article, a gay (homosexual) pride parade is scheduled to take place on 15 November 2008 at Hong Lim Park, which the Government has earmarked for demonstrations. The organiser suggested parading the grounds with placards of "Repeal 377A" on ... | more

Miss-Communication

Miss-Communication

It has blown over. It blew up, though not by any choice of the Church. Now that the dust has begun to settle, what are some of the lessons one can glean from the Aware non-saga? (It is one, in every sense of the term, except a fictional sense) An important ... | more
